A Bullet Made a Hailstone.

Colonel Clark R. Westcott of London is responsible for the following account of a singular phenomenon. His story is as follows:

"One hot day I was riding along a mountain road in Colorado on my way to a mine in which I am interested, when I noticed high above me, soaring in majestic circles, an eagle. I had a 45-70 Winchester slung across my back, and it was but the work of a moment to unslung the gun and fire at the bird, which appeared to be directly above me. As I fired I noticed that the bird was directly between myself and a dense black cloud which hung above me. The shot was a clear miss, and, not caring to waste any more cartridges, I was about to ride on, when I was startled to hear what I took to be the dull 'clung' of a stone thrown by an unseen hand, which fell into a little gully partly filled with leaves within 30 feet of me. I looked carefully about me in all directions, but could see no sign of a human being, and then I dismounted, and, scrambling back the leaves, was astonished to find a piece of ice as large as a goose egg and about the same shape. Upon close examination I was further astonished to discover my rifle ball firmly imbedded in its center. I have speculated a deal over this phenomenon since that time, and the only solution I can see is that the ball in passing through the cloud gathered the moisture and held it by its whirling motion so that it was frozen at a higher altitude and fell to the earth as I have described."—Chicago Chronicle.

Swallowing a Snake.

I had the good luck to see a curious sight—that of one snake killing and swallowing another. We came on the scene just as a king snake was killing a black snake, each a little over three feet long. The king was tied and coiled round the black, and the latter's tail could just wiggle. After a few minutes, during which the king tied himself in the most curious knots and ran his head up and down his victim's writhing body, biting it here and there as if examining his supper, he turned to the black's head, gave it a preliminary bite and then slowly proceeded to take the black snake into camp. It seemed impossible that he could swallow a snake as long as he himself, but he did it. This is how he did it:

He would stretch his head as far as possible, get his teeth hooked in his victim's scales, then slip his body up till it was in wrinkles at his neck and for some way down, then loose his teeth hold and slide his head forward for another grip, just as if you were putting on a tight glove, in fact. It was the most interesting operation, I think, I ever witnessed, and the king swallowed the all but three inches of the tail of the poor black snake and then, with that dangling from his mouth, girdled off into the grass. We let him go, as he is a known enemy of the rattlesnakes and often kills them.—Indianapolis Journal.

The Reward of Virtue.

The following story is related of a gentleman who invited a number of Sunday school children to a treat in his beautiful grounds. Not the least appreciated among the many good things were the excellent strawberries and cream, of which there was a plentiful supply. Seeing how the children enjoyed these, the good man, wishing to improve the occasion, addressed them:

"Well, boys," he said, "I hope you have thoroughly enjoyed your strawberries and cream."
"Yes, sir," was the reply in lusty chorus.
"But suppose," he continued, "that instead of having been invited here you had stolen over my garden wall and helped yourselves when no one was looking. You would not have enjoyed them half so much, would you?"
"No, sir," again replied the chorus.
"And why not?" queried their benevolent factor.

To this question there was no immediate response, the boys being apparently shy of giving any answer. At length, however, a little arched, rather bolder than the rest, piped out:

"'Cause we shouldn't have had no cream with them."—London Tit-Bits.

Which Would He Be?

Much amusement was caused recently at an inquest held at a certain town in Maine, according to an exchange.
After the usual swearing in of the jurors one of them arose from his seat and with much dignity protested against sitting as a juror, as he was managing clerk for a firm of solicitors and could not waste his valuable time at an inquest.
After making his protest the coroner, turning to his clerk, said, "Mr. So-and-so, kindly hand me 'Jervis'" (the book of authority on juries). And fixing the juror steadfastly he said: "Upon referring to 'Jervis' I find that no persons are exempt from sitting as jurors except idiots, imbeciles and lunatics. Under which heading do you claim exemption?"

It is said that carbolic acid, if dissolved in glycerin or alcohol, is not caustic, whatever be the degree of concentration. A small proportion of water added to the alcohol or glycerin solution will cause it to not as a caustic.

Doctors' Mistakes.

TREATING THE WRONG DISEASE.
How large bills are run up without benefit to the sufferer.

Many times women call on their family physicians, suffering, as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from nervousness, another from liver or kidney disease, another with pain here and there, and in this way they all present alike to themselves and their easy-going, indifferent, over-busy doctors, separate and distinct diseases, for which they prescribe their pills and potions, assuming them to be such, when, in reality, they are all only symptoms, caused by some wrong disease. The physician ignorant of the cause of suffering, encourages his practice until large bills are made. The suffering patient gets no better, but probably worse, by reason of the delay, wrong treatment and consequent complications. A proper medicine, like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, directed to the cause, thereby dispelling all those distressing symptoms, and instituting comfort instead of prolonged misery. It has been well said, that "a disease known is half cured." Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific medicine, carefully compounded by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate organization. It cures all derangements, irregularities and weaknesses of the womanly organs. It is purely vegetable in its composition and perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the system. For morning sickness, or nausea, due to pregnancy, weak stomach, indigestion and general debility, it will prove very beneficial. It also makes childbirth easy by preparing the system for parturition, thus assisting Nature and shortening "labor." The period of confinement is also greatly shortened, the mother strengthened and built up, and an abundant secretion of nourishment for the child promoted. Sold by all druggists.

THE FIFTY-CENT DOLLAR.

Mr. McKinley tells those who are paid and given free rides to Canton that the free coinage of silver would give us a dollar worth only fifty cents. He also tells them that the silver miner would make a profit of fifty cents on each dollar, which implies that the bullion producer could get the bullion free of cost, and take it to the mint and have it coined free of cost, as his profit on each dollar would equal the full value of the dollar.

But Mr. McKinley does not enlighten his hearers on a very important point regarding the fifty-cent dollar when seems to be minted only in the imagination of the single gold standard man. He tells the people that the only way the Government can procure revenue to maintain it is by taxation. That being admitted, does he mean to convey the idea that the Government will issue dollars from its mints which it will receive for only 50 cents. Does he mean to be understood that if a person desires to purchase 100 acres of the public domain now held at $25 per acre that he will have to pay $250 per acre for the land? If a person has to pay $250 for land revenue tax under the law will he have to pay fifty standard dollars if a free coinage bill is passed. A standard dollar will now purchase 100 one-cent postage stamps. If we have free coinage will the postoffice department order postmasters to give only 50 one-cent stamps for a standard dollar? Silver dollars and silver certificates redeemable in standard dollars are now receivable for duties on imports and all public debts. Will those dollars be accepted for 50 cents only under a free coinage act?

Does Mr. McKinley mean to be understood as saying that the United States Government will issue silver dollars, worth 100 cents, and then issue instructions to its customs and internal revenue collectors, its receivers of public moneys and its postmasters to receive them only for one-half their legal tender value? If he does not how can he say that standard dollars will be worth only 50 cents if a free coinage bill is placed on the statute books?

THE POPULAR VOICE.

In 1894 the wave which swept Cleveland into the Presidency two years previous changed to the Republican side and gave that party a large increase in many of the States. In 1894 there were three parties in the field, the Republican Democratic and Populist. This year the Democrats and Populists are united in nearly every State in the Union. The popular vote in 1894 is therefore of value in showing how the people stood in that year of Republican ascendancy. The official vote of the Democrats, Populists and Republicans in 1894 in the States now claimed for Bryan was as follows:

	Democratic and Republican.	Populist.
Alabama.....	9,197	104,148

A. W. Fees of the Iowa Populist State Central Committee says in the Chicago Record: Colorado, Kansas, Utah and Wyoming, are conceded to Bryan, making a total of 211 electoral votes that are sure for Bryan as anything can be before an election. Iowa has 38,000 free silver Republicans and not to exceed 5,000 gold Democrats.

The two Dakotas, Maryland, Illinois and Indiana will evidently give three-fifths of their electoral votes to Bryan, making a total of 293 votes for Bryan.

GOLD MEN ALARMED.

The Chicago Daily News, an independent newspaper of gold standard proclivities, says a flag of distress has been hoisted over the gold quarters in that city. The executive committee meeting had a full complement of grave faces and in its regular bulletin to the press it viewed the situation with alarm. The bulletin accused the Republican leaders of over-confidence and declared that nothing but hard work and plenty of fat would save Illinois, Indiana and Michigan to the gold cause. Disheartening reports were presented from Iowa, and a letter was read from an influential goldbug in Baltimore predicting certain victory for Bryan in "My Maryland."

It was announced that the venerable Presidential ticket—Senator Palmer and General Buckner—would be sent out on a fourteen days campaign in Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota and that John P. Irish would be sent into Iowa. One of the committeemen said Bryan is gaining strength every day and will continue to do so until election day, and if he had his way he would bring all campaign orators into the Mississippi Valley States and keep them there until the campaign is closed. "The trouble with our people," said he, "is that they have heard from Maine and Vermont and they think that settles it."

A QUESTION FOR GOLD MEN.

At St. Paul, Minnesota, William Jennings Bryan addressed one of the largest audiences that ever assembled in the city. During his speech a man in the audience asked about the 50-cent dollar. Mr. Bryan said:

"They tell us the silver kings will convert silver bullion now worth 50 cents into 100 cents and make the difference. That is one of the troubles, is it not?" The man in the audience answered "Yes," and Mr. Bryan said, "and when he has done that it will be a 50-cent dollar. That is another trouble!" and the man in the audience answered "Yes."

"Now, my friend," said Mr. Bryan, "when you have time to think about it, I want you to try and figure out how that can be a 100-cent dollar long enough for the miner to make 50 cents on it, and then become a 50-cent dollar for all the rest of the people? The only way in which the miner can make that profit is by converting a piece of silver now worth 50 cents into a dollar which will be worth 100 cents. If when he gets through he has only converted a piece of silver worth 50 cents into a 50-cent dollar he has not made anything by the operation."

The cheering which followed this reply was deafening, and the man in the audience who had heard from McKinley that the miner would make fifty cents profit on every 50-cent dollar was satisfied that Mr. McKinley's logic was as faulty as his arithmetic.

SENATOR STEWART COMING.

Senator Stewart has been busy advocating the cause of Bryan and the people since the Chicago Convention. He has been on the stump in Maryland and other States almost daily. He replied to Senator Thurston's libellous charge that Bryan was in the employ of silver mine owners, and to Bishop Newman's attack on Bryan. He is billed for speeches in the West, and he expects to arrive in Nevada about the 26th and will speak in all the principal towns along the railroad and in the western part of the State, and expose the true inwardness of the contest now being waged between the people and the gold syndicate.

Bismarck could have been forced to do it after proper solicitation. At the beginning of the Deutsch war, Field Marshal Wrangel, who was at the head of the Prussian troops, was extremely annoyed, at one point, to be taken up and not to advance further, and he returned a message telling "King" William that "these diplomats who spoil the most successful operations deserve the gallows." After that Bismarck ignored him completely, and one day they met at the king's table, where it was especially awkward to preserve a coldness. Wrangel called everybody "da," and presently he turned to Bismarck, who was seated next him, and said, "My son, canst thou not forget?" "No," was the curt reply. After a pause Wrangel began again, "My son, canst thou not forgive?" "With all my heart," said Bismarck, and the breach was healed.

A Trying Position.

Old Mrs. M—, who was seriously ill, found herself to be in a trying position, which she defined to a friend in these words: "You see, my daughter Harriet is married to one of these homeopathy doctors and my daughter Kate to an allypath. If I call in the homeopathy, my allypath son-in-law an his wife get mad, an if I call in my allypath son-in-law my homeopathy son-in-law an his wife get mad, an if I go ahead an get well without either o' 'em then they'll both be mad, so I don't see but I'd better do outright."—Detroit Free Press.

Was taken with La Grippe and tried all the physicians for miles about, but of no avail, and was given up and told I could not live. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in my store I sent for a bottle and began its use, and from the first dose began to get better, and after using three bottles was up, and about again. It is worth its weight in gold. We won't keep store or house without it." Get a free trial bottle at S. J. Hodgkinson's Drug Store.

A Trunk Stolen from the Depot.

A trunk was left at the baggage room door last evening just before the west-bound train arrived, the owner intending to leave by that train, but the trunk turned up missing when the time came to check it. The officers immediately started on a hunt and found it some distance below the depot, broken open. Nothing of value was taken, but the trunk was damaged considerably. It is supposed that a hobo swiped it shortly after it was left on the platform.

The Superior Court of Kings county, New York, decided in favor of the Democratic Committee's protest against the use on the official ballot of the designation "National Democratic" by the gold Democrats. Judge Clement says the party name of the National Democratic party is substantially the same as the regular Democratic party and infringes upon the right of the latter.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed efforts—there is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

RENO PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Report and Honor Rolls for the Month of September, 1896.

To the Honorable Board of School Trustees—GENTLEMEN: I herewith respectfully submit my report for the public schools of Reno for the month ending October 2, 1896.

The enrollment was 538 as against 553 for the same period last year—a decrease of 20. Though the average is a little less than 30 per room, two of the rooms, Mrs. Booth's and Miss Linehan's are somewhat crowded, having 50 pupils and 46 pupils respectively. This is unavoidable, being a condition that occurs yearly at some points in a graded school system, owing to the varying number of pupils in a given grade from year to year.

The attendance during the State Fair week was excellent, several of the teachers securing their regular attendance throughout the week.

The high school enrollment is slightly in excess of that year. The Kindergarten also has an increased attendance, although its report is not at hand.

The teachers are all securing excellent interest on the part of the pupils, and all are, in consequence, maintaining good discipline. The outlook for a most prosperous year of school work is encouraging.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

BARTINE ON REPUBLICANISM.

He Shows Why He, a Republican Leader, Is Opposed to the Gold Trust.

Hon. H. F. Bartine, ex-Congressman from Nevada, who stood by the Republican party while that party stood by its principles, was one of the speakers at a large and enthusiastic meeting in Chicago last Saturday, and among other things said:

"I am opposed to the candidates of the Republican party because upon the great and practical issue before us that party has ceased to be Republican as I understand the term. Contrary to all its past history and tradition, for the first time since it was born, the Republican party has openly declared in favor of the gold standard and laid down in the awful shadow of the money power of Europe and America."

By history and tradition it was always a bimetallic party, pledged to maintain the gold and silver money of the constitution until its independence and its Americanism were strangled together in St. Louis on the 18th day of last June. The power that holds the purse strings of the world has the world at its mercy, that power to-day is London, and London will continue to be the power so long as the gold standard is maintained. The financiers of England understand this perfectly well. Running all through the testimony of the gold standard advocates who made the statements before the royal commission in 1890-92, was the idea that the restoration of silver would injure England as a creditor nation and deprive London of its present position as the world's great financial center. Mr. Gladstone also understands it well. In the most explicit terms he has declared that England is a creditor to the extent of $10,000,000,000, and that the restoration of bimetalism would reduce the value of the money which she collected. What did he mean by that? Was he afraid of England being paid in "cheap silver"? Not at all. He knew that under international bimetalism gold and silver would be of equal value at the ratio agreed upon, but he also knew that the restoration of silver would make the gold itself cheaper. If that be true, then the demonetization of silver made gold dearer and gave England an advantage that does not belong to her by any principle of justice and fair dealing. And this is not the worst of it. The declaration is made with the full knowledge that the restoration of bimetalism would be for the best interests of the country. As Mr. Bryan has frequently said, the promise to promote an international agreement is itself an admission that there is something wrong with the gold standard. So the position of the Republican party is simply this: It admits that bimetalism will be for the best interests of the country, but at the same time makes the humiliating plea that we can do nothing for our own good without the permission and the aid of a country whose interests are directly opposed to our own. But even this does not tell the whole story. When the St. Louis Republican Convention met not more than one-fourth of its members were actually and avowedly for the gold standard. More than three-fourths were strongly for bimetalism—or at least they claimed to be. And yet the three-fourths lay meekly down and allowed the one-fourth representing the English idea in American politics to bind their hand and hand with chains of gold."

Judge Cheney Makes Some Suggestions.

RENO, Nev., Oct. 12, 1896.

W. H. Patterson, M. D.—DEAR SIR:—This evening's Gazette containing your challenge to me for a joint debate is the first intimation that I have had that you or any one desires to have me publicly debate the financial issue with you or any one. Had you asked me (as the warm personal friendship which you express might easily have suggested) I would have disabused your mind at once of any desire or intention of engaging in public political debates while holding a judicial office, and thus save you the necessity of issuing a public challenge. I make no claim of being a student of finance. Neither my opportunities nor tastes have furthered any such investigation, and my present official engagements forbid it even if I felt so inclined.

If it be true, as you say, that "our people have never had any but the silver side of this question presented to them in debate" the responsibility is not mine, and it would indicate that you propose to advocate a political faith new to this people. If that be so, your present announcement will be sufficient to secure public attention as the new always attracts. So I do not feel that my refusal to appear with you will at all interfere with your having ample opportunity to present your views. As they appear to be different from any which Republican speakers have ever presented to the people of Reno, it may not be amiss to suggest that your own party presents ample field for missionary work.

Yours truly,
A. E. CHENEY.

RENO, Sept. 2, 1896.

I have used Trib as a "rub down" both before and after riding since I first became acquainted with it six weeks ago. It certainly has a most beneficial effect on the muscles, making action easier and preventing all soreness and stiffness. I believe its general use will lead to the improvement of time in wheeling.

Had you asked me (as the warm personal friendship which you express might easily have suggested) I would have disabused your mind at once of any desire or intention of engaging in public political debates while holding a judicial office, and thus save you the necessity of issuing a public challenge. I make no claim of being a student of finance. Neither my opportunities nor tastes have furthered any such investigation, and my present official engagements forbid it even if I felt so inclined.

If it be true, as you say, that "our people have never had any but the silver side of this question presented to them in debate" the responsibility is not mine, and it would indicate that you propose to advocate a political faith new to this people. If that be so, your present announcement will be sufficient to secure public attention as the new always attracts. So I do not feel that my refusal to appear with you will at all interfere with your having ample opportunity to present your views. As they appear to be different from any which Republican speakers have ever presented to the people of Reno, it may not be amiss to suggest that your own party presents ample field for missionary work.

Yours truly,
A. E. CHENEY.

Manuel Simas, a Reno wheelman, who has given much attention to his favorite sport, who made the best run in the Examiner's Relay Race across the Continent, also holds several important medals, having recently defeated at Carson, one of the best wheelmen in Nevada, and to whom by the way, we apologize for misnaming him in our last issue, writes as follows:

RENO, Sept. 2, 1896.

I have used Trib as a "rub down" both before and after riding since I first became acquainted with it six weeks ago. It certainly has a most beneficial effect on the muscles, making action easier and preventing all soreness and stiffness. I believe its general use will lead to the improvement of time in wheeling.

ENGLISH RAILWAYS.

THEY ARE SLOW TO ADOPT IMPROVEMENTS IN THE SERVICE.

American Wrinkles Are Adopted In a Sort of Half Hearted Way, and Very Little Effort Is Made by the Managers to Popularize Them.

Two factors in English holiday travel are obvious from these great piles of passengers' baggage. One is that there is no check system on the railways, and the other that if it cost as much to hire a cab in Liverpool or Manchester as in New York there would soon be a diminution in the number of packages, if not in the weight of the baggage, which English families take with them on their holiday travels. Few big Saratoga trunks are to be seen on the platform at Crewe. Here and there may be seen a trunk which it takes two men to lift, but the address on it will almost certainly show it to belong to an American visitor. English people will not take the trouble to pack all their belongings into one or two large sized trunks. Neither is there any need why they should, as long as the railway companies will accept without charge 12 or 15 small trunks, hampers, bundles and other miscellaneous packages as the baggage entitled to go with one set of railway tickets, and so long as an English cab driver will pile all this stuff on the top or box seat of his cab and carry it and the family attached to it from their home to the railway station for half a crown.

Every now and again an Englishman who has been in America writes to The Times concerning the advantages of the check system as it is worked on the American railways, but all these letters go unheeded. English railway managers have a dread of innovations, especially if the innovation comes from America, and the English people, who are accustomed to the scramble for baggage at the railway stations, are quite satisfied with the existing system, or rather lack of system. On the whole, they save a little money by it. English railway companies allow a third class passenger 50 pounds of personal baggage, and a first class passenger double that amount. Any excess is supposed to be paid for, but a tip of threepence to a porter will usually see the whole traveling impediments of a family carried straight from the cab to the train and insure that no questions as to weight are asked. It is usually the lack of a tip or a hostile hint from a station man who is not satisfied with his fare that leads to a call at the weighing machine on the way from the cab to the baggage van. Under the existing system English people have no way to watch over their own baggage at every change, and sometimes to scramble and struggle for it at the end of the journey, and to tumble over other people's baggage as they fight their way into a crowded train. But then, as I have shown, it is a system under which the passengers can nearly always get the best of the railway company in the matter of excess of baggage, and nobody gives any heed to the frequent suggestions that the American system of checks should be adopted.

In one or two directions the English companies are now following the example of the American railway companies. After years of urging from the board of trade and the government department which has the oversight of railways several of the lines are gradually introducing long cars for long distance travel. They have not boldly adopted the American car. The pattern of car now being brought into use is a compromise between the American car and the English compartment carriage. The compartment is retained, but each compartment is connected with a corridor which runs down the middle, but along one side of the car. This has given the name of corridor train to the train made up of carriages built after this fashion.

One of the trains all the carriages are connected with vestibules like those on American railways. On other trains there are two or three corridor cars, while the rest of the carriages are of the old fashioned style. It is characteristic of the English people that there is seldom any scramble for places in the new cars. People seem to like the old compartments better, a fact upon which the railway companies do not fail to lay stress when, after some outrage in a train, the companies are pressed by the board of trade to make the use of corridor cars more general. The corridor trains are principally in use between London and Scotland. On scores of the long distance runs in England all the carriages are still of the old fashioned kind.

Another fact concerning the corridor trains is typical of the English character. Newsboys are not carried on them. The English railway newsboy is still kept solely to the platforms at the railway stations. And he is likely to be kept there, for English people would vote it a nuisance too great to be borne to be pestered to buy books and confectionery they do not want. The newsboy who travels with the train has few friends among Englishmen who have been in America. People grumble at the prices charged by the monopolists who control all the railway news and bookstalls in this country. But it is often put to the credit of the monopolists that their newsboys are always at hand, but never make themselves a nuisance, nor worry passengers who do not want the books they are vending.

One of the newest innovations from America in the English railway service concerns mileage books. These are now in use on the Northwestern railway.

They are being tried in a tentative fashion, and so far are issued only to first class travelers. The reductions in fare are quite considerable, and the conditions prescribed by the company are easy. If the experiment works satisfactorily, it will soon be extended to third class passengers on the Northwestern, and, once well established on one large trunk line, the system will soon become general.—London Letter.

Court Fests.

The poets of the small courts are the importance attached to etiquette and the thin skinnedness and jealousy of the courtiers. Great poets of all courts, but chiefly of the greater, are the hosts of fussy people, hangers on of all kinds and projectors who want to secure royal patronage as a means of advertisement. They are much more likely to get it than the deserving because their instinct tells them how to make their approach. Queens are now pestered all over Europe with individuals who imagine money is to be made in getting up unions to secure artistic and literary employment for women. The poor weak things would go to the wall if they were not brought into droves. The larger the drove the greater the number of subscriptions and the better for the drover. The Empress Frederick is ready to help feminine unions, but for handicrafts requiring trained skill and talent, and not to get poor scribbling or painting shot into the market. The queens of Sweden and Denmark are of the same mind. But the queen of Sweden likes to patronize authors on the side of religion and good morals. The empress of Russia feels her way. My maid of honor tells me that the Prince of Wales' daughters are credited in northern courts with shrewdness and insight into the motives of fussy philanthropists.

The most pleasant court for maids of honor is that of St. Petersburg. The Countess G. was there on a visit and wondered whether there were limits to the liberties of the courtiers. One box is as free as the other. The ladies smoke, dance, take continental drives in the long daytime summer nights, flirt with grand dukes or with no matter whom, throw themselves into love, diplomatic, palace and even political intrigues. The latter may lead to Siberia. But the gambling spirit is strong in them. Danger gives zest to enterprise and forbidden fruit is sweetest.—Paris Cor. London Truth.

Dialect Shadings.

"If you want to study dialect shadings, take a half dozen trips on one of the big consolidated cars," said a prominent lawyer to a Cleveland Post reporter. "You'll hear some of the queerest attempts at pronunciation you ever listened to. Yes, from the conductors. I've got so schooled in the different accents that I can tell in a moment when a new conductor is aboard. I understand a good many of these fakers are Canadians. If that is so, Canada must be as full of dialects as the Australian empire. My favorite test is in the word 'transfer.' In six trips I heard it pronounced six different ways. Let me try to reproduce them:

"Transfers."
"Transfers."
"Transfers."
"Transfers."
"Transfers."
"Transfers."

"The last example emanates, I am inclined to think, from an official of German descent. All the other conductors were unmistakably from some portion of the British possessions. Listen the next time you go aboard a motor and see if you can connect the dialect artist with his original nationality."

The Atmosphere.

The general causes which act on the movement of the atmosphere are defined by Professor Cornu, in an address lately delivered before the British Royal Institute, as gravity, influence, and, when once the movement is set going, it continues of itself and sometimes increases in amount. In the first place, Professor Cornu declares, the movement of the rotation of the earth is to be cited, which always brings with it a small component of rotation for a displacement of a gaseous mass in latitude or altitude, and, in the second place, and as decisive a cause, the solar heat, which warms the air near the surface, or the clouds. Thus related, and as the ascending tendency of the heated gas cannot be equal over the whole surface exposed to the rays of the sun—as much because of the nature of the ground as because of its inequalities—the equilibrium is upset in parts and gaseous columns ascend. When once gravitation is established, the causes producing it keep it up and augment it.
